Speeches and Reports:

Mao Zedong: Opening Speech, GREAT VICTORIES IN THREE MASS MOVEMENTS. October 23, 1951 .

Zhou Enlai: " Extract Political Report on nationalities," October 23, 1951.

He warned that waste and bureaucratism were threatening to "divorce" the Party and government from the masses.

"If we had not attached great importance to the uprooting of the remnant forces of the counter revolutionaries, it would have been impossible to consolidate important measures for the people's cause, such as the movement to resist America and aid Korea"

There was still a shortage of personnel in offices responsible for economic affairs and for education, Zhou said, but other agencies were too large. Accordingly, the Government Administration Council was planning a conference on governmental reorganization with a view to reducing the size of those overstuffed agencies

"Lawful rights and interests of these people [the Overseas Chinese], as a result of unreasonable discrimination and even persecution on the part of certain countries, have been seriously infringed. This cannot but arouse serious attention and deep concern of the Chinese people."

Zhou Enlai: "Report Summing Up the Meeting"

By 1951, the Party's guidelines for land reform had been consolidated into six steps, of which steps 2 to 6 are crucial to Chinese-style policy experimentation to the present day: (1) train work team cadres and send them down to the localities; (2) carry out model experiments; (3) accomplish breakthroughs in a key point; (4) broaden the campaign from point to surface; (5) integrate point and surface with regard to the applied measures; (6) unfold the campaign in steady steps. 39 39 Based on Zhou Enlai's report to the Chinese People's Political Consultative Conference as given in RMRB, 3 November 1951, p. 1.

Remark

1. Mao launches the 3 anti-campaign Sanfan. Attacking the three evils of corruption, waste, and bureaucratism. This Three-Anti campaign initially targeted CCP members but later broadened in scope. There is no document that supports the earlier belief that the Three-Anti had a trial run in Manchuria. If the Three-Anti campaign was tested in Manchuria, Gao would have employed the specific phrase "Three-Anti" in his report to Mao. But the phrase "Three-Anti" does not appear in the party-controlled media nor internal party documents, and thus one has no reason to believe that such a mass campaign was ongoing in early-autumn 1951.
