

The Central Committee of the Communist Party of China approved and transmitted the instructions of the Gansu Provincial Party Committee on the report on the "three antis" struggle

Date: 1951-12-22

Central bureaus, and transfer to sub-bureaus, provincial and municipal party committees:

This report of the Gansu Provincial Party Committee is very good, please publish it in the party publication. According to the opinion of the Gansu Provincial Party Committee, the anti-corruption, anti-waste, and anti-bureaucratic struggle only takes one month from launch to end. This opinion of the Gansu Provincial Party Committee is basically correct. Some comrades believe that it is not easy to launch this struggle and that it will take several months to end. This opinion is not very correct. Of course, it is necessary to completely solve all the bureaucratic problems of corruption and waste, including the investigation, public trial, judgment, and handling of many major corruption criminals, and many capital construction projects to re-examine their old and wasteful designs and establish new and economical designs. But in general, about a month is about the same. In particular, for the phenomenon of waste in general, as far as an organ is concerned, it takes about half a month from investigation, research, criticism, inspection, to formulating a new system and stopping wasteful expenses, and many organs have such experience. It is not to stop all work and focus on the "three antis" struggle, but to combine it with various work, especially with the work of rectifying the party, and the "three antis" struggle is the main content of the current rectification.
