

The Central Committee of the Communist Party of China instructed all localities and departments to make "three anti" reports to the central government

Date: 1951-12-30

all departments of the Central Committee and the Central Military Commission, and all party groups of the Central People's Government; all central bureaus and sub-bureaus, provincial and municipal party committees; the major military regions were transferred to the second and third military regions; Volunteers:

(1) All work departments at the central level, the large administrative region level, and the provincial and municipal levels, such as the Party's propaganda department and organization department, the government's finance department (department or bureau), the public security department (department or bureau), the military region headquarters, the logistics department, and all people's organizations, except for each people's organization that does not need reports from each department in general, should make reports on anti-corruption, anti-waste, and anti-bureaucracy to the Chairman of the Central Committee and the Chairman of the Central Military Commission. All departments of the government that cooperate with people outside the Party in leadership work shall make reports in the name of the Party group. During the first four months of 1952, a report was required once a month for comparison by the Central Government. It is necessary to see which leading comrades at all levels are actively working hard and which are passive and lazy in this serious struggle (the reason for passive laziness is that the leader has bureaucracy, and the other is that the leader's hands are not clean), so as to implement rewards and punishments. Those who do not report will be punished as disciplinary violations, and those who need to postpone the report must state the reason. Party committees at all levels should be responsible for supervising these reports.

(2) The rest of the electricity will remain unchanged according to the 20:00 a.m. telegram on December 4.
